DETAILED ACTION

In a response of 7/21/04 to a restriction requirement of 6/18/04, applicants elected Group I claims 1-26 and 28-32 with traverse.

Applicants urge that searching the additional inventions will not
5 be an undue burden and that the search for all claims is co-extensive. However, because of the differences in the claimed inventions as noted in the restriction requirement, searching all inventions, or inventions I, II and IV, together will be an undue burden and the search is not necessarily co-extensive. The devices of inventions I
10 and IV clearly have different structure, and this requires different searches. Invention I clearly does not require steps of the method of invention II, and this requires different searches.

If the device of invention I is found allowable, a method requiring the device may be rejoined.

15 Claims 27 and 33-37 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in the reply filed on 7/21/04.

20 Claims examined on the merits are 1-26 and 28-32.

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: the abstract is objected to as containing two paragraphs.

25 Appropriate correction is required.

Art Unit: 1651

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

5 (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the 10 invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner
15 presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention
20 was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-26 and 28-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Weiss et al (6,143,293) in view of Vacanti et 25 al (6,139,574) and Mastrangelo et al (6,136,212), and if necessary in further view of Cima et al (5,518,680) or Marra et al (6,165,486).

The claims are drawn to a multilayer device containing a first layer for attachment and culturing of cells and containing a pattern of microchannels, and a second layer for attachment and culturing of 30 cells, and the first and second layers being fastened together.

Art Unit: 1651

Weiss et al disclose a scaffold containing multiple layers fastened together for cell culture that is the same as presently claimed except for the presence of microchannels.

Vacanti et al disclose a scaffold for tissue regeneration
5 containing interconnected pores.

Mastrangelo et al disclose producing microfluidic devices containing microchannels.

It would have been obvious to provide a layer of the scaffold of Weiss et al with interconnecting microchannels as suggested by Vacanti
10 et al disclosing a scaffold having interconnected pores and Mastrangelo et al disclosing producing microfluidic devices having microchannels. Microchannels in the scaffold of Weiss et al would have been expected to be advantageous for the same type of reason that Mastrangelo et al found such channels to be advantageous. If needed
15 Cima et al or Marra et al would have further suggested scaffold structure. The conditions of dependent claims would have been matters of obvious choice in view of the disclosures of the references. The methods of claims 25, 26 and 28-32 would have been obvious methods of making the scaffold in view of the methods disclosed by the 20 references.
